Robert Arthur "Bobby" Allison was named one of NASCAR's 50 greatest drivers, he was the 1983 Winston Cup Champion and won the Daytona 500 three times in 1979, 1982, and 1988.

During the course of his career, Bobby Allison accumulated 84 credited victories and 2 uncredited victories making him fourth all-time, tied with Darrell Waltrip. In 1972, he was voted national Driver of the Year for winning ten races and taking 11 poles (including a record five straight) and again in 1983 when he claimed his only championship. He was NASCAR Winston Cup Champion in 1983 driving for DiGard Racing. He also won the Firecracker 400 in 1982, making Allison the fourth driver to sweep both Sprint Cup point races at Daytona in the same year.

Allison won the first Daytona 500 run with restrictor plates in February 1988 by a car length over his son Davey Allison, rendering him the first driver to have won the Daytona 500 with and without restrictor plates. He is the oldest driver (50 years) ever to have won the Daytona 500.

Allison is one of only eight drivers to have won what was then considered a career Grand Slam (an unofficial term) by winning the sport's four majors.... Only seven other drivers have accomplished this feat.
